3 RUSSIAN CRUISERS SAFE

Admiral Enquist's Flight Ends in Manila Bay.

SEEKS REFUGE FROM JAPANESE.

Russian Ships Battered from the Effects of the Japanese Fire—Heavy Wounded Men Aboard—Rear Admiral Train Will Care for the Wounded in American Hospitals—A Problem to Solve.

Manila (By Cable).—Rear Admiral Enquist, who was commander of the heavy cruiser squadron of the Russian fleet, arrived in the bay on board his flagship, the protected cruiser Aurora, accompanied by the protected cruisers Oleg and Jemtchug. All the vessels were more or less damaged, and they were from New York for Dover.

Rear Admiral Train, on board his flagship, the battleship Ohio, with the Wisconsin, Oregon, Kentucky and Cincinnati, was outside Corregidor Island manoeuvering when the Aurora signaled with guns, and the Ohio answered.

Admiral Train and his squadron are to-day steaming in the direction of Subig, where the Russian vessels are anchored.

In an interview Rear Admiral Enquist's executive officer said:

"When the battle began the Admiral was aboard the cruiser Oleg, which was flying Rear Admiral Enquist's flag. There was an incessant rain of shells from quick-firing guns and the ship was soon badly damaged.

"The Admiral transferred his flag to the Aurora, which then was the only one of three fire-of-many torpedo-boat destroyers at the start of the battle which remained in the line of battle. It was at this juncture that the Admiral decided to make a settlement of the whole trouble with a pique on the port side. Fifteen of the officers had been slightly wounded in the engagement, and because of his arrest in connection with the shooting of Mr. Thorne, of Montgomery Ward & Co."

BAD FIRE NEAR THEATER

But the Audience, However, Was Gently Led Out.

THE SCENE WAS A THRILLING ONE.

Avenue Theater, Pittsburg, Burned and the Grand Opera House, Adjoining, Damaged—Burned Theater Was Closed—Audience Driven Out of the Grand Opera House by the Prompt Action of Ushers.

Pittsburg, Pa. (Special).—One of the most exciting and spectacular fires that has visited Pittsburg in recent years broke out in the Avenue Theater shortly before 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and before it was subdued had completely destroyed the Avenue and partially wrecked the Grand Opera House adjoining, but fortunately no panic resulted and no lives were lost. The loss will reach $150,000, fully insured. The cause of the fire is believed to be traceable to crossed wires.

The Avenue was probably the oldest show-house in the city and recently has been used for vaudeville. The building fronts on the south side of Fifth avenue, midway between Wood and Smithfield streets. The Grand Opera House, which is partially under the same roof, extends through to Diamond street. The Avenue had been closed for several weeks and no one was in the building except the watchman, but in the opera house a matinee performance was in progress when the fire broke out. The people were dismissed without a panic. The loss is $150,000.

Jimmy Hope, the old safe-breaker and the man who pulled off the famous Manhattan Bank robbery in New York in 1878, died suddenly in his wife's arms.

Rear Admiral Coghlan is appointed Captain Kautz, of the Aurora, was wounded, so of the crew were killed and 65 were wounded.

The losses on the Oleg were 13 of the crew killed and 50 wounded. On the Jemtchug the casualties were at present officers killed and four wounded, 12 of the crew and 30 wounded.

From a close appearance the Russian vessels are not much below the water line. Their funnels, however, are riddled by hits of small shells. Several large shells pierced the cruisers' smokestacks and a number of guns were dismounted. All the Russian officers interviewed declared that the fighting of the submarines caused confusion and disorder. Rear Admiral Enquist has cabled to the Minister of Marine.

The battleship Ohio and the cruiser Cincinnati are now entering the bay of Subig. No official action as to their disposition has been taken yet.

The arrival of the three cruisers at Manila clears up the conflicting reports about these ships since the battle of Japan sea. Admiral Togo at first reported the Jemtchug sunk, then on subsequent reports from the commanders it was dropped from the list of destroyed ships. Admiral Jessoweitsch, however, is, later report said the Japanese cruiser Chitose sighted the Jemtchug, Oleg and is a mistake.
